

NEWS IN BRIEF

IIMN infrastructure is world-class, says principal secretary Rastogi

Principal secretary for higher and technical education department, government of Maharashtra, Vikas Rastogi (left) and IIMN director, Dr Bhimaraya Metri.

Principal secretary for higher and technical ties at IIMN.

“IIMN has world-class

education department, government of Maharashtra, Vikas Rastogi was left impressed by the world class facilities at the Indian Institute of Management, Nagpur (IIMN) during a recent visit.

IIMN director, Dr Bhimaraya Metri, took him around the 132-acre ultra-modern campus. "IIM Nagpur offers a wide variety of choices to budding management professionals. Courses here have been designed as per the emerging trends and requirements of the industries," Rastogi said while appreciating the facili-infrastructure. The design of the campus is very unique and innovative. All this creates a perfect environment for any educational institution which inspires and motivates faculty as well as students," Rastogi said.

"Considering the demographic dividend of India, there is a need for more and more such institutions to come up in this sector, to inspire the budding students to move up the ladder. IIMN provides such opportunities to explore their potential and to get jobs not only in India but also abroad," he further added.