International Society for Krishna Consciousness (ISKCON) administrative board commissioner and spiritual Guru Dr Gauranga Das Prabhu believes that today's generation is increasingly losing hope. "This is a matter of grave concern. This is not only a big worry for parents but it is also for teachers and education institutions," he said.

He further said that as per Gita, the destruction of hope is the greatest destruction. "To prevent this destruction, it is necessary to establish coordination between modern and ancient knowledge and it is also necessary to develop your inner consciousness," he remarked.

Dr Prabhu was in the city to deliver a lecture on Life Management Skill to the students and staff of Indian Institute of Management (IIM), Nagpur, here on Thursday. He expressed his views while talking to reporters.

IIMN director Dr Bhimaraya Metri was also present on the occasion. Dr Prabhu said that every parent wants to keep their children away from tension and depression. This can be made possible only when the soul interacts with the supreme soul and establishes a coordination with the environment. If you are able to succeed in pacifying the people internally then there will be peace in the environment and also the society. He further added that we discuss how to increase the external energy but

Lot expected from National Education Policy

Dr Prabhu also lauded the central government for the new National Education Policy (NEP). "We are expecting a lot from it. This policy is capable of establishing coordination between modern and ancient education systems," he said.

no effort is being made to develop the internal energy. "This is the reason as to why a person is not able to realise the greatest energy hidden within him. The day he will interact with his inner energy, no one can stop him from moving forward and becoming successful," he said. Spiritual education helps to awaken the consciousness, he added.
